OMVIC shall provide reasons to a requester for denying access to records or personal information.

Upon request, OMVIC shall advise an individual regarding the existence, use and disclosure of his or her personal information and, subject to the exemptions noted in section 3 of this Code, provide the individual with access to their personal information in a comprehensible form.

The purposes for which personal information is collected shall be communicated to the individual to whom the information relates, by OMVIC at or before the time the information is collected, unless the information is collected as part of an inspection, investigation or a complaint.

OMVIC shall take reasonable steps to ensure that the personal information in its custody and under its control is not used unless it is accurate, complete and up-to-date as is necessary for the purposes for which it is to be used. Amendments to personal information received from the individual to whom it relates shall be recorded by OMVIC as soon as practically possible.

Personal information shall be retained only as long as necessary to fulfill the purposes for which the information was collected. Where personal information is made available to third parties on an ongoing basis pursuant to section (6) of this Code, amendments to such information shall be regularly provided to third parties.

Before disclosing information to third parties, OMVIC will take steps to ensure that the third party has measures in place to protect the personal information.

10. CORRECTING ERRORS

Where an individual disagrees with the accuracy of their personal information received from a formal request, the individual is entitled to request a correction. The request for correction must be in writing and addressed to OMVIC.

If an individual can establish that the information in OMVIC's records is not accurate and complete, OMVIC will take reasonable steps to correct the information, subject to the limitations that may be necessary or appropriate to enable it to carry out its regulatory activities. The following list contains examples of the types of situations where OMVIC may decline to correct personal information because correcting the personal information could reasonably be expected to interfere with its regulatory activities:

- where the person requesting the correction does not provide sufficient information to enable OMVIC to assess the request to make the correction;
- where the fact that the statement was made, whether it is correct or not, is relevant to the regulatory activities of the organization;
- where correction may reasonably interfere with a regulatory process including an inquiry, investigation or hearing;
- where the correction may reasonably interfere with the regulatory or enforcement activities of another statutory regulatory body or a law enforcement agency;
- where the correction may alter an original document that belongs to someone else and will eventually be returned to that person; or
- where correction is prohibited by another Act.

Where OMVIC agrees to correct a record of personal information, the correction may be made so as not to obliterate the original entry. Where OMVIC agrees to correct a record of personal information, OMVIC shall provide written notice to every person to whom the original record was provided within the previous twelve months unless to do so is impractical or would reasonably interfere with its regulatory activities.

If the correction is refused by OMVIC, the individual may require OMVIC to attach a Statement of Disagreement to the file. The Statement of Disagreement shall not exceed 500 words.

11. FEES

Personal information shall be made available to the person to whom the information relates at reasonable cost.

Records, other than bulk data, shall be made available to a requester at a cost which reflects the total cost of providing the information. The cost of providing bulk data will be determined on a case-by-case basis. In determining fees, OMVIC will make efforts to be consistent and base costs on publicly available criteria.

12. ADMINISTRATION

OMVIC shall make available information regarding this Code and relating procedures and practices.

Whereas this Code conflicts with the Act or any other relevant legislation, the Act and relevant legislation shall prevail.
